NATIONAL STOCKHORN AND TURNER.

NARROW ESCAPE.

On Friday morning when Martin Run was a raging torrent from the heavy rains, three little children of Carl Slavin attempted to cross a foot bridge. Hazel, aged four, fell in, and Robert, aged six, and Earl, aged ten, went in to rescue her. The children were washed over and over down several yards but the boys managed to pull their little sister to one bank. The father saw them, but the swift waters and rolling stones were almost too much for him. It is wondered that all three children were not drowned.—Times.

RSELF, with the aid his inside at her first found the first court of entering his the victim had tried but had she asked me Paris it by she asked and died.

Hide-a-Key

Never get locked out of your car again. Duct tape a key to the rest of the duct tape that covers the rust on your rear quarter panel. The only real trick is remembering which hunk of duct tape holds the key.

Key Holder

Wad up a bunch of duct tape, sticky-side-out, and put it on your wall.

Then stick your keys to the wad.

It's functional and affordable, not to mention highly fashionable wall art.
